

After review, the program committee offered the following justification: Abstract provided insufficient evidence for feature to be an impact crater, such as how a multi- ring crater could form so small on Earth (estimated transition diameter is measured in >100 km, not 100 m), or evidence of shocked minerals at or near the sites. Abstract also violates Planetary Crater Consortium rule about closely related abstracts from the same person or research group.